United Markets and Stemple Creek Ranch Join Together

Stemple Creek Ranch is a fourth-generation family owned and operated business based in Tomales, California just a few miles from the Pacific coast. We raise 100% grass-fed and finished Angus beef that graze year round on certified organic pasture forage.

At over 1,000 acres, our home ranch is 100% protected through the Marin Agricultural Land Trust (MALT) to insure it will remain a productive part of the Marin County agricultural landscape forever.

Our family believes the future of agriculture rests in regenerative ranching. We are one of three cutting edge West Marin demonstration farms participating in a decade-long carbon farming study through the Marin Carbon Project. The study is providing a science-based roadmap to address climate change on a global scale and we are very proud to say that we are carbon positive – meaning we sequester more carbon than we emit.

We promote biodiversity by protecting sensitive riparian areas and propagating native plants that enhance wildlife habitat. We practice an intensive schedule of rotational grazing, and utilize cutting edge solar and gravity flow technology. Our animals never receive artificial hormones, growth promotants, or antibiotics. They never see a feed lot. Ever.

We are excited to partner with United Markets as the first locally raised organic beef available in their stores. Customers can find our beef at both the United Markets locations: San Rafael and San Anselmo!

We are proud that United Markets is committed to supporting local producers whenever possible, and bringing the best to their customers. They recently welcomed members of our team to host in-store product tastings at both locations where we enjoyed connecting directly with shoppers.
