

Fresh and Local

With Marin's Support, Judge Casey's grows.

Judge Casey's success and growth has been helped by the support of the late Bill Daniels and the Marin Community over the past 18 months. We have become a part of Marin, from joining in the local Sandy Daniels Memorial Bocce Ball Tournament to getting involved with San Rafael's local baseball team, the Pacifics, last season. You can enjoy our relish with hotdogs and more at Albert Park.

We are now sold in almost 200 stores, some beyond California and one of our first big accounts was with UNITED MARKETS.

Peadar Casey and Stephen Bray are Irish guys and local Bay Area residents. Their company makes it's original Irish tomato relish here in California from Peadar's family recipe with only the finest Californian produce. Crafted with a blend of tomatoes, sun dried tomatoes, onions, raisins & spices, Judge Casey's gives your taste buds a real kick!

Find their meatloaf recipe and more on Judgecaseys.com/blog. Delicious on burgers, hotdogs, fried chicken, with your breakfast eggs, give pasta sauces a lift, create a sweet and tangy pizza sauce, pairs wonderfully with shrimp or 'fish & chips'... The options are endless.

Just like United Markets, Peadar's great grand-uncle, the real Jeremiah Casey gave back to his community. He emigrated from Ireland in 1873, worked hard and eventually opened a Hotel and Brewery in Port Costa. He gave a free barrel of beer to the townspeople each day, was hugely popular and was known up and down the Pacific coast. A self-taught student of Law, Casey became a Judge.

Sample their delicious tomato relish on Thursday March 7th, from 11-2.30 in San Anselmo and 3-6 in San Rafael.

If you miss them there, be sure to look out for their 1955 Ford F100 in the St. Patrick's Day Parade in San Francisco on March 16th!
