

WHERE DO YOUR NICKELS GO?

Rancho Compasión is more than a sanctuary for rescued farmed animals — it's a sanctuary for people, too. Children and adults discover where nourishing food comes from, engage in hands-on animal care and gardening, and experience compassion in action. Through these moments, they cultivate curiosity, empathy, and the simple joy of being present.

As Rancho Compasión looks toward the next decade, their vision is to expand both sanctuary and learning opportunities — welcoming even more children and families to connect, learn, and grow. They hope to double the number of students served this year, offering them space to disconnect from screens, reconnect with the natural world, and rediscover a sense of wonder.

To support this growth, Rancho Compasión plans to expand their education team and reach more students, nurturing the next generation of compassionate stewards of the earth. With 90% of every dollar going directly into their programs, your support ensures that every contribution strengthens their mission: to build a compassionate, connected community where learning, exploration, and care flourish for all.
